Who Do We Serve?

The New England Eye Southeastern Massachusetts is a specialty vision clinic geared to meet the primary eye care needs of individuals with intellectual disability who are eligible for services through the Massachusetts Department of Developmental Services.

What Do We Do?

At our office in East Bridgewater, eye examinations are provided to determine a person's eye health, to better understand how each person uses his or her vision, and to maximize visual function. Eye exams are scheduled for one hour, allowing time for the exam, and to make sure that all questions are answered.

Our examinations include evaluation of:

- Medical, Education and/or Rehabilitation History
- Eye Health – exterior and interior (may include dilating drops)
- Eye Pressure – important to evaluate for glaucoma
- Binocular Vision – to determine how the two eyes function together
- Vision Acuity – how clearly a person sees at near, far and intermediate distances
- Contrast Sensitivity – visual discrimination of color and brightness
- Visual Field – spatial awareness, central and peripheral, helpful for mobility

During the visit, we may prescribe eye glasses and/or vision aids; develop appropriate therapies, and offer advice on rehabilitation or educational considerations. In addition, recommendations/referrals may be made to other specialists for in-depth testing of visual field, to ophthalmologists as needed; and to opticians for the selection and fitting of eyeglasses. Before you leave, any needed paperwork will be filled out. A full eye report, including all recommendations will also be prepared and mailed to you at home.

Who Will Be There?

Upon arrival, patients and their caregivers will be greeted by our patient care coordinator. Because we are a teaching clinic for New England Eye, Christine Sacco, OD, and an optometry intern from the New England College of Optometry will work together to provide the eye exam.
